STILL STRUGGLING.

Strikers Still Holding Out Against the Company.

No Material Change in the Situation at the Yards.

Trains Being Moved Without Police Protection.

The Strikers in Session During the Morning Hours.

The Local Situation.

The Missouri Pacific yards are no longer in the hands of the strikers and switch engines are run in and out without being molested. The fight between the company and the Knights of Labor is practically at an end, although official orders to that effect have either not been received or are being withheld from the public. The strike has now reached that point where it does but little injury to the freight traffic of the road. This morning four or five trains were sent out and it was not found necessary to run them under police protection. They passed unmolested through the yards and out of the city. The police guard is still held at the yards to afford protection to the company in case the strikers assume an aggressive spirit. For two days, however, the officers have had nothing to do but stand guard at Hickory street crossing and patrol the yards.

When a STAR reporter visited the railroad yards this morning not a striker was visible, and not more than a half-dozen spectators were playing the Micawber act. The spectators who have been haunting the scene of the strike for three weeks past were forced to seek shelter from the chill breeze that swept in from the north. The strikers were holding a meeting at their hall on Twelfth street, which accounted for so few of them being seen about the yards. The meeting was in session nearly all forenoon and important business was considered, but what conclusions were arrived at could not be ascertained as the strikers would not talk. The railroad company is still engaging new hands and it is expected that all the vacancies will be filled within the next three or four days. Four young men who were formerly employed on the road, returned to work this morning. The were not members of the Knights of Labor organization, however, and were not, therefore, compelled to remain out until official orders were received.

Speaking of the situation, an official of the road this morning said to a STAR reporter:

"As soon as we can secure duplicates of the stolen parts of crippled engines, we will be prepared to handle freight as rapidly as it was ever handled in these yards, and in less than twenty-four hours we would have the yards completely cleared of the cars that have been accumulating during the strike."

The new force has been increased during the past twenty-four hours until now it numbers at least 60 per cent of the old force. A few of the new force are old hands, but the most of them are workmen who were not engaged in the strike. This fact plainly indicates that many of the strikers will be unable to return to their old positions when the trouble is at an end, for the simple reason that their places have been taken by others.

Revoking a Pass That Didn't Exist.

Special Telegram to The Star.

ST. LOUIS, April 2.—Two strikers were arraigned in the police court yesterday on charges of disturbing the peace and one of them was heavily punished. Through some misunderstanding neither of the defendants had counsel, though both went to trial under the impression that ex-Governor Johnson had been retained to defend them. Fred Howard was charged with assaulting Abe Hazel, a Missouri Pacific engineer. Howard was formerly a fireman for Hazel. Some amusement was created yesterday in a circle of the knights which has access to private means of information as to the actions of Missouri Pacific officials by an order issued by superintendent E. K. Sibley to all conductors on the system informing them that the quarterly pass over the lines held by Chairman Martin Irons had been revoked and directed them when it was presented to take it up and collect fare from the bearer. "Why," said one of these Knights who had obtained a copy of the order for the purpose of filing away as a part of the strike archives, "Martin Irons hasn't got but one pass and that's over the Iron Mountain. I don't believe he ever used that. He's been on one trip over the Missouri Pacific since the strike began, and he paid his fare then. I guess he has paid it on every train he's traveled on since the first of the month. That order was sent out for pure meanness—that's all."

Powderly Seriously Ill.

NEW YORK, April 2.—A Scranton, Pa., special says: "Since Powderly's return from New York he has been confined to his room and has been unable to see visitors of any kind. The strain upon his physical and mental resources while he was endeavoring to bring about a satisfactory settlement of the strike in the west on the top of months of severe labor more than he can stand. He was in no condition to travel when he went to New York ten days ago to hold a conference with Gould. On his return Tuesday he had to be assisted into his carriage and was driven at once to his house. His attendant doctor said to the correspondent yesterday: "What Powderly needs more than anything else and must have, is absolute rest for a number of days at least. I have forbidden him to receive visitors or be annoyed with business or anything likely to distract his mind. I do not believe that he is in any danger if he follows my instructions."

Jno. E. Barrett, editor of the Scranton Truth, who was allowed to see Powderly yesterday, says: "I believe Powderly's condition to be very critical, and the country should know that he is in no condition to know what is going on in the west, and should not be held responsible for what Irons and his associates may do."

Wholesale Indictments.

ST. LOUIS, April 2.—East St. Louis has the reputation of being able to furnish more items of a startling and peculiar nature per [illegible] than any town of its size in America. The strike having apparently taken possession of the minds of the residents of the east side of river to the exclusion of everything else, it was naturally supposed to be the comparatively exclusive source of news for several days. Yesterday, however, a surprise broke upon the city that for a time overshadowed the strike and furnished the leading topic of conversation for those who were advised of it. The news came from Belleville that the grand jury had returned indictments against a number of city officials, nearly all the aldermen and several politicians for alleged offenses connected with the last city elections and with the administration of municipal affairs.

As Determined as Ever.

ST. LOUIS, April 2.—The large freight houses in East St. Louis have not yet been thrown open for the Knights of Labor are no less determined than they have been for a week not to allow any supplies to be handled in that vicinity either by wagon or train. Crowds assembled in the railroad yards there this morning as large as at any time since the strike began. They seem determined the roads shall not resume freight traffic until their grievances shall be arbitrated and settled. No attempt as yet has been made to run freight trains this morning and no disturbances occurred.

Again Accepting Freight.

CHICAGO, April 2.—Representatives of the Missouri Pacific railroad state that they are accepting all kinds of freight, both perishable and otherwise, to points in the southwest. The Burlington and Alton roads bill freight by way of Hannibal and other points in Missouri, and the Wabash accepts freight by way of East St. Louis, while the Illinois Central is accepting freight to connect with the Missouri Pacific at Cairo. A consignment of freight was accepted this morning for St. Louis from Chicago, to go by way of Hannibal and Moberly.

All Quiet at Sedalia.

Special Telegram to The Star.

SEDALIA, April 2.—Nothing new has transpired in strike circles here to-day. Trains are running without interference. The men are all waiting for orders from the executive board. The men who were arrested yesterday for assaulting a workingman were all discharged except one, who was fined $25. There are numbers of the men who show a disposition to still do violence, but the officers keep them in check.

What Gould Has to Say.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Gould was seen by a reporter yesterday and said of the situation: "I do not see that I can say anything. The whole matter has been referred to Hoxie, in whom we have full confidence. He is on the grounds and knows the situation and is thoroughly informed of all that has taken place in New York. The strike is really over, and was virtually at an end before any New York conferences were held. The business of the road has been resumed, trains running and the yards at St. Louis are getting cleared of accumulated freight as rapidly as possible."

THE SITUATION AT PARSONS DESPERATE—A GENERAL OUTBREAK FEARED.

PARSONS, Kas., April 2.—The situation here is critical in the extreme. The company have made no effort to move a wheel aside from the passenger trains since the killing of the locomotive by the strikers in defiance of the personal presence of the adjutant general yesterday. All is quiet on the streets at this hour, but it is plainly to be seen that the people are not as calm as the exterior indicates, and as the coming storm may be down upon us within a few hours, the time is looked forward to with great solicitude. All sorts of rumors prevail. Militia is hourly expected. The company has men guarding the bridges in all directions leading into the city, and a hundred armed men are guarding the shops here to prevent their destruction, threats of burning them and the town having been made.

Business in Full Blast.

NEW YORK, April 2.—The following dispatch from Hoxie was received at the office of the Missouri Pacific Railway company this morning:

"While there may still be some trouble at some points, I think that the worst is over; but things may not run smoothly for some days. I have plenty of force to run trains and do repairs. Am gradually recruiting my force with new men. Business has been resumed in the Kansas City yards and a large business is being done there. The total loads moved on the system yesterday were 3,002, an increase of 854 over the day before."

It is stated at Gould's office nothing has been heard concerning Irons or the action of the strikers.

All Quiet Over the River.

EAST ST. LOUIS.—Everything up to noon here to-day remained quiet. The strike of transfer men makes it impossible to haul any freight to the depots and therefore no freights have been started out from here this morning. Switch engines however, are running backward and forward in the yards without interference from the strikers. A heavy snow began to fall about noon and the crowds around Relay depot and railroad yards have decreased since early this morning. Those who remain are less demonstrative than usual and maintain perfect order.

Receiving Freight for All Points.

ST. LOUIS, April 2.—The Missouri Pacific freight agents are receiving freight this morning for all points on the Gould southwest system, and the business of those roads will be again regularly conducted as it was before the strike. None of the Knights of Labor have gone back to work, but the officials say they have employed a sufficient number of new men, since the Knights left their employ, to resume freight traffic.

Returned to Work.

Special Telegram to The Star.

HANNIBAL, MO., April 2.—Adjutant General Jamison left for home at noon yesterday. The Missouri Hacific ran a train out of here to-day without molestation. Most of the men have returned to work in accordance with the agreement between Gibbon and the general last night. All quiet.

Where is the Executive Board?

ST. LOUIS, April 2.—Messrs. Turner, Hays and Baily, of the general executive board Knights of Labor, were expected to arrive in this city this morning, but have not as yet put in an appearance. No one seems to know where these gentlemen are. Members of local executive committees state they have not heard from them since they left Pittsburg and know nothing of their whereabouts.

Waiting for Orders.

ST. LOUIS, April 2.—A Post-Dispatch special from DeSoto, Mo., says everything is quiet, awaiting orders from headquarters. No movement to resume work will be made until an agreement is arrived at.

THE THIEVING ALDERMEN.

How Alderman Waite Explains Matters—Alderman Kirk Taken and Warrants Out for Others.

Special Telegram to The Star.

NEW YORK, April 2.—When ex-Alderman Charles B. Waite arrived in town yesterday morning he was met at the depot by Inspector Byrnes and was closeted for a long time with him. This gave rise to statements that he had been arrested in connection with aldermanic frauds, but this proved to be incorrect. An afternoon paper published a three column interview with Mr. Waite, calling it his confession. The substance of his statement is that, as a reward for his services in securing the election of Kirk as president of the board of aldermen in 1884, he was given the privilege of appointing the railroad committee. He appointed such men as he could easily control and who knew Jim Richmond. They voted on the franchise bill just as he dictated. The ex-alderman claims that he did all this out of pure friendship for Jim Richmond, who was Sharp's right hand bower, and that he (Waite) never got a dollar. He mentions a number of aldermen who he thinks did receive bribes, but he made no positive statements. Waite finally acknowledged his interest in getting the Broadway franchise bill through was stimulated by a promise of the fire commissionership. Waite's statement has raised a rumpus in this town that is hardly shaded by the row over the Tweed ring thefts. Inspector Byrnes last night arrested ex-Alderman Kirk and took him to central headquarters, and although Kirk is said to be worth in the neighborhood of $500,000, he had not got bail up to a late hour. Judge Gildersleeve issued the warrant for Kirk's arrest. Kirk was president of the board of alderman at the time of the steal, although he was not present at the early session on a hot August morning in 1884 at which it gave the city's best thoroughfare to the Broadway surface railroad ring. Kirk's arrest was made on Waite's statement that he (Kirk) was absent on his farm in Long Island when the board voted the franchise away and that his absence was a put up job. Waite claims that he secured Kirk's election to the presidency of the board on a promise from Kirk that he (Waite) should be allowed to appoint the members of the railroad committee which was to be worked in the interest of Waite's friend Jim Richmond, president of the Broadway Surface Railroad company. Judge Gildersleeve has also issued two more warrants, but they had not been served at midnight. It is extensively rumored that one of them bears the name of James Richmond, the lieutenant of Jake Sharp and his spokesman in the Broadway Surface railroad board. Waite has not been arrested but he is under the eyes of the police. He appears to think that his snappy statement exposing the fraud in no ways reflects upon himself.

Another New York Alderman Arrested for Bribery—Passed the Night in Jail.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Alderman Fulgraff was arrested, this morning, on a bench warrant by a central office detective on the charge of bribery in connection with the passage of the Broadway surface railroad franchise. He He was taken to the district attorney's office.

Fulgraff walked into the attorney's office closely followed by a detective. After holding a long interview with the district attorney Fulgraff was taken before the grand jury.

Ex-Alderman Kirk spent the night in a cell at the police headquarters. He sat up all night with his head in his hands brooding over his troubles. After the ex-alderman breakfasted this morning he was taken to the district attorney's office.

Ex-Alderman Kirk was brought to the district attorney's office and kept secluded in a private room. Soon after ex-Alderman Waite drove up in a carriage accompanied by two of the assistant attorneys and entered the building. Ex-Alderman Finch shortly afterwards made his appearance in company with detective and entered one of the rooms of the district attorney's office. Although the district attorney persists in stating that ex-Alderman Waite is not a prisoner, he is guarded closely.

OFFICIALS IN TROUBLE.

An Indictment Against the Treasurer and Council of East St. Louis.

Special Telegram to The Star

EAST ST. LOUIS, ILL., April 2.—An indictment issued yesterday was against Mr. Wm. P. Launtz, the city treasurer, and contained two counts charging him with withholding public funds. He was also charged with malfeasance in office. The indictment reads as follows: "William P. Launtz, as principal, William H. Hill, E. A. Haines, Wm. Shra, Henry Salkmann, Robert Cunningham and Garret Estack as accessories, on the first day of February, 1886, had in his possession as treasurer $20,000, a portion of one-half the money received into the treasury for licenses from keepers of dram shops. That such of $20,000 was then required by law to be paid by the city treasurer to the treasurer of school township No. 2 north, range 10 west, in St. Clair county; that W. P. Launtz, as treasurer, did on the first day of February unlawfully, wilfully, corruptly and feloniously fail and refuse to pay over the said sum of $20,000 or any portion to Timothy Holloran, the school treasurer, and that Wm. H. Hill, C. A. Haines, Wm. Shea, Henry Sackmann, Robert Cunningham and Garret E. Slack, being members of the city council of East St. Louis before the offense was committed on the first of February, 1886, did incite, move, procure and counsel and command the said Wm. P. Launtz to withhold the money from the school treasurer."

The amount of his bond was fixed at $1,000. The second indictment read: "Wm. P. Launtz, treasurer of the city of East St. Louis for malfeasance in office for having on the 18th day of July, 1885, a large sum of money in his possession, to-wit: The sum of $7,500, which had been collected and set apart under authority of law as a special fund, to-wit: As a water tax fund and required by law to be kept separate from all other funds of said city of East St. Louis and paid out only on account of and drawn against said water tax fund; he did then and there unlawfully, knowingly and corruptly divert the same sum of $7,500 in his bonds as treasurer of the water tax fund for the purpose for which it had been collected and set apart, and did unlawfully and corruptly apply the said sum of $7,500 in the payment of other claims against the city of East St. Louis while there were then and there legal demands against said water tax fund, and could not be legally paid out of the same."

Bail was fixed in the sum of $1,500.

Wm. P. Launtz, withholding funds in his hands as treasurer on the 18th day of October, 1885, being then and there treasurer of of the city of East St. Louis, he had a large sum of money in his possession, to-wit: $1,100 in a certain fund called the interest fund, being a fund established by law to pay the interest on the bonded indebtedness and matured bonds of the city of East St. Louis, he did then and there willfully, coruptly and feloniously refuse to pay to William C. Kneffner so much of the interest fund as was then and there necessary to satisfy a certain judgment which had heretofore been recovered by him as execution of the last will and testament of one Amelia Meyer, and did refuse to pay over any part of the interest fund to General W. C. Kneffner, attorney for Edward Reed, who had judgment of $800 against the city."

Bond was fixed at $1,000. Several other indictments will be issued against members of the city council of East St. Louis.

MARKETS ELSEWHERE.

Wheat Dull Again, Closing at About Yesterday's Prices—Corn and Provisions Firm and Higher.

Norton & Worthington furnish the following:

The Chicago wheat market closed at 1 o'clock at 81⅛c for May, which was a fraction lower than the 2:30 close yesterday. The opening, at 81⅜c, was higher on "war" news, a chestnut which the trade has come to regard only with laughter, and there was so much stuff for sale at the advance that prices refused to hold and the result is the decline noted. The market was very dull and trading light. Until some new feature enters into the situation we think it will be purely a scalping deal and would advise purchasing only upon breaks and the taking of profits on the periodic bulges.

Cables were quoted strong and with an upward tendency. Consols were unchanged at the opening but closed two points lower for money and unchanged for account.

Provisions opened higher, dropped a point or two and then remained stubborn to the close. Considering the showing made by to-day's monthly statement of stocks, and considering also the palpably changed attitude of the packers and many of the late long persistent bears, we think the market is now in better condition for an advance than it has been in the last sixty days. The demand for cash product is fast improving. The price has been forced very low. The Lenten season, which always exerts a depressing influence upon consumptive demand, is now half over. The price of hogs is well maintained and gives no promise of a material decline. Legitimately and speculatively viewed, therefore, the product is cheap and should do better. We think it will.

The report of stocks of provisions held in Chicago on March 31, which was posted this morning, together with the stocks on Feb. 28, is as follows:

	March 31.	Feb. 28.
Mess pork, contract bbls	270,000	304,000
Mess pork contract bbls	42,000	33,000
P. S. Lard, contract tierces	102,000	116,000
Short ribs, middles, lbs	36,000,000	38,603,000
Other meats, lbs	33,000,000	72,000,000

The decreases shown above are considerably larger than the trade had expected.

The stock of breadstuffs in London and Liverpool on the 1st of April was as follows:

IN LONDON.

Flour, bbls	400,000 to 420,000.
Wheat, qrs	380,000 to 400,000.
Corn, qrs	25,000 to 50,000.

IN LIVERPOOL.

Flour, bbls	320,000 to 340,000.
Wheat, qrs	550,000 to 575,000.
Corn, qrs	50,000 to 60,000.

Receipts at Chicago were 42 cars of wheat, 164 of corn, 60 of oats, 2 of rye, and 31 of barley.

Estimated receipts for to-morrow are 20 cars of wheat, 100 of corn and 65 of oats.

Official receipts of hogs were 19,242; shipments, 6,944; left over, 7,500. Estimate for to-day, 17,500. Estimate for to-morrow, 10,000.

The market was fairly active and prices ranged about five cents higher than yesterday.

David Dows & Co. wire us from New York that late yesterday afternoon they sold quite a line of Duluth wheat for export.

Seven loads of spring wheat were taken this morning in New York for export.

Corn was active and strong, trading being heavier than before for a fortnight.

Calls on May wheat, good all next week, are offered at 84½c.

SWIFT RETRIBUTION.

A Double Murder Followed Immediatsly by a Double Lynching—Other Crimes.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—A double murder, followed by the lynching of two men, is reported from Southern California. Wednesday evening Peter Hermine and son, armed with rifles, approached the premises of Eugene Walker, in Arroya Grande valley, San Luis Obispo county, and without any word opened fire upon Walker, who, with his wife and child, was in the garden. Walker fell dead, and Mrs. Walker, shot through the arm and breast, picked her child up and ran to a neighbor's, where she died. The murderers were captured and jailed. Soon after midnight a gang of masked men took the prisoners out and hanged them to the railroad bridge near by, where the bodies were found yesterday. A dispute about land was the cause of the trouble.

A Negro Hanged.

ST. LOUIS, April 2.—A special to the Post-Dispatch from Lexington, Mo., says Jeff. Wilson, colored, was hanged there to-day for the murder of Jennie Sanford, his mistress, on July 31, 1884. The reading of the death warrant to the condemned man did not seem to move him, and when the procession passed from the jail to the gallows he gave a cheerful smile of recognition to all as he went along. He talked several minutes and when the drop fell his feet touched the ground but were hurriedly drawn up and the rope shortened and his neck broken. Life was pronounced extinct in twelve minutes. Five thousand people witnessed the execution.

A Boy Convicted of Murder.

HENRIETTA, Tex., April 2.—Valentine Sanford, a boy 14 years of age, has been found guilty in the district court of murder in the first degree for killing his mother. His punishment is assessed at confinement in the penitentiary for life. The evidence showed the boy shot his mother while she was at work in the cotton field. The body was concealed in some bushes near the cotton patch. The boy made several confessions, but they were not used against him. He was convicted entirely upon circumstantial evidence.

Crop Prospects.

TOLEDO, O., April 2.—During the past three days C. A. King & Co. received 1,700 reports, covering every important wheat county in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Kansas and Missouri. They say the present prospects of the growing crop are very favorable in Illinois, Missouri and Ohio; fair to good in Michigan and poor in Kansas.

Protest Against Freedom for Ireland.

LONDON, April 2.—A great mass meeting was held this afternoon in Guilde hall to protest against the granting of a parliament to Ireland. The lord mayor presided. Sir John Lubbock, Liberal member of parliament for London university, moved the adoption of a resolution condemning Gladstone for the intention of handing Ireland over to Mr. Parnell, whom he previously denounced. A working man arose and offered an amendment te Sir John Hubback's resolution, but was howled down and the resolution carried amid wild enthusiasm, But twenty persons in the immense audience voted in the negative.

A Young Man Badly Injured by Falling Upon a Stove.

A Midnight Scene That Made a Cook Shriek for Help.

Preparing to Reorganize the Entire Police Force.

The Police Court Grind—Other City News of To-day.

A Queer Accident.

A young man who has recently been employed in a restaurant at 1066 Union avenue fell upon a stove and received injuries that will keep him confined to the house for several days. He was sleeping above the kitchen and by some means fell through an opening and landed upon a red-hot stove. The flesh upon his face and arms was badly burned and his hand was severely cut by its contact with the stove. The cook was badly frightened by the sudden and startling appearance of the young man, and at once began to shout "murder!" in a voice that was calculated to awaken the entire neighborhood. The proprietor of the restaurant, Mr. Rodeharten, was awakened by the cries of the cook, and imagining that some one was being murdered, armed himself with a stout club and started for the kitchen, where he found a young man squirming about the floor in great agony. He was taken to a room and a physician was called to attend to his injuries.

The young man, who is known by the name of "Charley," was suffering great pain to-day, and as he is out of money application for his admission to the city hospital was made.

BUSINESS GOSSIP.

Talk About Substantial Improvements—A New Factory—Real Estate.

A number of prominent business men held a meeting in the office of the secretary of the board of trade late yesterday afternoon to consider the question of erecting chemical works. Mr. Cruse, a manufacturing chemist of New York, who has come to Kansas City for the purpose of organizing a stock company to erect works for the manufacture of glue, bone black, ammonia and fertilizer from packing house refuse, was also present.

The meeting adjourned until to-morrow, when it is expected that some definite action will be taken. It is proposed to erect a plant at a cost of $50,000.

The hotel bonus subscriptions are coming in slowly. It was announced last night that with $15,000 promised subscriptions the actual amount raised was $40,000. This is $15,000 short of the necessary total.

West Fifth street is experiencing a mysterious boom in real estate. Without any apparent cause values have been steadily advancing for two or three days. The property near Washington avenue, sold by Mr. J. C. Gates, two or three days ago for $200, a foot has since sold for $325. Marty, Arnold & Co. sold to O. P. Scriven of New York, 300 feet of Fifth street property for $300 a foot. Land in the vicinity of Meyer Bros.' drug house is being held to-day for $350 a foot. Various reasons for this self-made boom are being assigned by capitalists, but is generally considered the result of long depressed values.

One of the reports now in circulation about the Corrigan Fifth street cable line is that it is the intention of the company to continue it out East Fifth street, making a cable route from the west bottoms to the east bottoms, Messrs. Corrigan and Martin are now on their way to Kansas City on their return from New York, where they have been conferring with capitalists.

Real estate on East Twelfth street is motionless. Prices have reached a limit which can only be crossed be crossed by the beginning of cable extensions.

Broadway is one of the most active real estate centers in the city. Prices have reached $600 a foot and are steadily rising. Like Fifth street the boom is a natural one.

Mr. Chick sold the Fifth street property known as the little Broadway hotel, last night for $275 a foot. This property is the first lot west of the southwest corner of Fifth street and Broadway, fronting 85x100 feet in depth. Mr. Chick also purchased 120 feet on Fifth street at the foot of Penn street, this morning, and resold it for $300 a foot. No one has as yet discovered any explanation of the advance in values on this street. It is certain that there is no "boom" involved.

WM. D. CHARDE.

A Sketch of the Republican Nominee for Alderman in the Second Ward.

Mr. Charde came to Kansas Cita from Philadelphia, for the first time, in 1870, then a mere boy. His sole ambition at the time was to possess a farm. He obtained employment in the wholesale house of Parsons & Co. and for several years was their chief accountant. He saved his earnings and invested them in 160 acres of Kansas Prairie. Every dollar he earned he spent in improving his farm until before long he had one of the finest farms in Osage conty. After the neath of his father he returned to New Jersey, his native state, and acted as administrator to his father's estate. He married and shortly after returned to Kansas City and has ror the past twelve years been a resident of the Second ward, having never lived in any other locality in this city. He owns considerable real estate in Kansas City and also in the state of Ksnsas and has made every dollar by his own industry.

Mr. Charde is 33 years old and a widower, having lost his wife some four years ago. He is a thorough going, live and energetic, enterprising business man, and his integrity is beyond reproach. He is of the firm of Barns, Charde & Co., and president of the Missouri Valley Store Furniture company, who employ from thirty to fifty men the year round, and pay out every Saturday night from $400 to $600 in wages. By his own energies Mr. Charde has made Kansas city a market for goods in their line, as before his advent into the business, all the trade in their line went to Chicago and St. Louis. He has worked his business up from the employment of two men to its present proportions and deserves a great deal of credit for business sagacity, and Kaw City needs many more such men as Mr. Charde and his friends could well be proud of such an able and affluent member of the city council, as he would make. His election would do credit to the judgment of the voters of the Second ward.

ENROUTE TO NEW MEXICO.

Ex-Senator Lyman Trumbull Passes Through Kansas City.

Hon. Lyman Trumbull, ex-senator and ex-governor of Illinois, passed through the city enroute to Albuquerque. He was seen in the Union depot by a STAR reporter, but displayed no strong inclination to submit to an interview. He asked several leading questions in regard to Kansas City, however, and seemed deeply interested in the huge crowd that surged about him. He made several inquiries about the local situation of the strike, and seemed somewhat surprised when informed that it had not yet been declared at an end. He then referred to O'Neill's bill now pending in congress and remarked that the congressman was at work attempting to solve a difficult problem. He would not, however, predict what effect such legislation as O'Neill proposes, would have upon future between railroad companies and Knights of Labor.

Senator Trumbull is a very distinguished appearing gentleman and is beyond doubt the most profound statesman in the state of Illinois. He was a member of the United States senate in 1868 and voted against the impeachment of President Johnson.

POLITICAL MEETINGS.

An Enthusiastic Meeting at Kump's Hall—Meetings To-night.

An enthusiastic Republican meeting was held at Kump's hall last night. The hall was crowded with people, notwithstanding the cold weather. The first speaker of the evening was the candidate for mayor, Mr. H. C. Kumpf. He addressed the audience in a few well chosen remarks, which were received with loud bursts of applause by those present. Mr. J. S. Botsford was the next speaker. He was followed by Messrs. Henry Smith, Nathaniel Dickey, Benjamin West, Henry C. Hyde and several others. There seems to be no doubt among the voters of the city but that Mr. Kumpf will be the man chosen to stand at the head of the city government during the next year.

Republican meetings will be held to-night as follows: In the Second ward, at the criminal court room; Fourth, Ninth and Tenth wards, at Armory hall. Fifteenth and Grand avenue; Seventh and Eighth wards, at Fred's hall, on Ninth street, between Woodland and Winter avenues.

Will Pay Damages.

A condemnation suit to secure the appointment of a commission against the property of D. C. Wideman and others was brought in the circuit court yesterday afternoon by the Elevated road company,

Preparing to Reorganize.

On May 4 the Metropolitan police force will be entirely reorganized and a large number of new men added. Just how many is not known at present, this being decided by the ordinance the city council is expected to pass, but it is expected the force will be doubled. The police commissioners have had lengthy blanks prepared, and applicants will be required to fill them. Form "A" has to be signed by five citizens who swear that they know rhe applicant to be a good citizen. The applicant mnst give his personal history for the past five years, together with the facts concerning his family, somewhat similar to the questions propounded by life insurance companies. A medical recommendation is also required. If a man is not five feet ten inches in height, under 40 years of age, and has had at least one year's residence in Kansas City, it is useless for him to make application.

WILL PROTECT HIMSELF.

Mr. Kumpf Takes a Firm Stand in Regard to an Alleged Circular.

The political enemies of Mr. H. C. Kumpf, Republican nominee for mayor, have been circulating reports freely concerning an alleged secret circular, which he is charged with having issued. Mr. Kumpf stated to a STAR reporter to-day that he never issued circulars of the kind referred to, and if such are in circulation they are forgeries. "I never issued a secret circular," said Mr. Kumpf, while speaking of the report, "and pronounce anything of the kind a forgery, and shall prosecute to the full extent of the law the persons who committed the forgeries. I have placed the matter in the hands of a detective and propose to punish the guilty parties."

Amusements.

An audience never laughed heartier or applauded more than the one present at the Coates, last night to witness the first performance of "Mixed Pickles," with Mr. J. B. Polk as the leading pickle. The comedy is entirely original and abounds in new jokes and farces which combined with the splendid acting of Mr. Polk and the artists that support him have a tendency to keep the house in a continual roar. "Mixed Pickles" will be given to-night and Saturday with matinee. If you wish to enjoy a good laugh attend the performance at the Coates.

"The Beggar Student" is at the Gillis again this evening. It will be given for the last time to-morrow night.

The attraction at the Coates next week is Hoyt's popular success "A Bunch of Keys." The company, with one or two exceptions, is the same that were here last season.

Professor John Reynolds continues to have large audiences who are deeply interested in his performances.

"The Guv'nor" at the Museum drew another large audience last night.

Joseph Proctor, the eminent actor, supported by his talented daughter, Annie E. Proctor, will appear at the Gillis on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. Mr. Proctor will present Knowles's most popular and truly sublime tragedy, entitled "Virginius" on Monday, "Nick of the Woods" on Tuesday, and "Richelieu" on Wednesday, with "Damon and Pythias" at the matinee on Wednesday. Mr. Proctor has good support and should be well patronized.

Police Court News.

In the recorder's court this morning J. C. Pierson was fined $26 for careless driving. Pierson was arrested while enjoying a ride in a buggy he found tied in front of the office of a Delaware street physician. He drove very fast, and on Delaware street ran over a little girl but did not injure her very much. The case against Mike Welsh for having an unlicensed express wagon was continued to-morrow morning. Welsh with another man hauled a trunk to the corner of Fifth and Oak streets last evening for Samuel Fox. They wanted to charge more than the law allows and a scene occurred. The police were called and Welsh was arrested. His partner succeeded in making his escape.

Personal.

Colonel Charles P. Benson, of Chicago, the celebrated dog fancier, is at the Lindell where he will be pleased to see all having blooded canines, between 7 and 9 to-morrow.

Lecture at the Synagogue.

Rabbi Krauskopf will lecture at the synagogue, Eleventh and Oak streets, this evening on "The Jews and the Moors in Spain."

School Board.

The board of education held a regular meeting last night. Bills amounting to $1,245 were allowed and ordered paid.

False Alarm.

A false alarm of fire was turned in from Thirteenth street and Lydia avenue, this afternoon.

Mule Stolen.

Andrew Davis, of Armstrong street, Kansas City, Kas., had a mule stolen from his barn last night.

NINE PEOPLE DROWNED.

Frightful Result of the Floods in Alabama—Great Damage to Property—Floods in West Virginia.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 2.—A special to the Advertiser states that the Warrior, Coosa and Tallapoosa rivers are falling. Thousands of horses, mules, cattle and hogs have been swept away. Corn, cottonseed and provisions in reach of the flood were destroyed. A relief boat brought a large number of people who have been in peril and were without food for three days on a farm employing state convicts. Water flooded the quarters. The president of the board of inspectors made way with boats to the imperilled people and got them off in safety. So far reports of drowning in various portions of the state foot up nine, all colored but one. Four women and three children were in a cabin on Capiba river, it floating off with them. The water is two feet deep at the union depot and from there to the Alabama river bridge of the South & North road is an almost continous sheet of water. A special from Opelika says Johnson Bridges, an engineer of a construction train, which went down on the Tallapoosa river, died after his leg was amputated. Six hands on the same railroad died or have been drowned. A view of Some Capital, the highest point in the vicinity, the surrounding country is a lake of water to the north and west ten miles square.

Hundreds of People Suffering.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. April 2—The flood in the Kanawha and Elk rivers, which resulted in submerging half the city, began receding early this morning, and at 11 o'clock the marks show 35 feet in the channel. News from Point Pleasant, at the mouth of the Kanawha river, says the Ohio river lacks but a few feet of being equal to the great flood of two years ago. In the flooded district of the city many hundred people who lived in small houses are great sufferers, many having lost all their possessions.

Moving to Avoid the Flood.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 2.—The Cumberland is rising three-fourths of an inch per hour at this point and falling at the head guage at Nashville 41.9, being eight inches above the danger line. Many families are moving, their houses being partially submerged. There was a heavy rain this morning and the skies are threatening.

Fears of a Flood.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 2.—The river here has reached the danger line and is still rising rapidly. The atmosphere is cloudy. Streams throughout the state, particularly the Kentucky and Cumberland rivers, are very high.

A New Railroad Company.

Special Telegram to The Star.

SEDALIA, MO., April 2.—The subscribers to the proposed northern outlet from Sedalia met yesterday and organized a company for the purpose of building a railroad to connect with the Chicago and Alton at Marshall and the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy at Cunningham. There was no trouble in effecting an organization and the charter will be secured at once. Thirteen directors were chosen and the following officers elected for the first year: John B. Jaynes, president; Judge O. Hunt, vice-president; R. E. Chappell, treasurer; G. C. McLaughlin, secretary; John Montgomery, jr., attorney. The capital stock of the company was placed at $125,000 divided into 12,500 shares of $100 each. The following gentlemen were chosen directors: P. E. Chappel, G. C. McLaughlin, John B. Jaynes, John Montgomery, jr., W. H. Weed, J. Hamner, Robert Smith, J. Houston, W. R. King and O. Hunt.

A Parallel for the Oregon Case.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 2.—The schooner J. H. Congdon was wrecked off Point Reys, forty miles north of here, Wednesday. Her crew was lost. The supposition was that the vessel struck a hidden rock. Examination of the wreck, however, showed that the schooner had been struck amidships and cut almost in two, evidently by a steamer or other craft going at a high rate of speed. The discovery caused much excitement in maritime circles, as it is feared the unknown vessel which sunk the schooner has gone to the bottom with all on board. The wreck occurred [illegible]ore daylight. The case furnishes a str[illegible] parallel to the loss of the Oregon. The Aq[illegible]a is supposed to have been the vessel in collision.

A Decrease of Failures.

NEW YORK, April 2.—The Mercantile agency of R. G. Dun & Co. reports business failures in the United States for the first quarter of 1886: Number, 3,203, with liabilities a little over $29,000,000. Failures for the first three months of 1885 numbered 3,653, with liabilities of $46,000,000.

Activity at the Foreign Office.

LONDON, April 2.—There is great sudden activly in the British foreign office. Gladstone spent considerable time there to-day conferring with with Earl Roseberry, secretary of foreign affairs.

A VICTIM OF CENSURE.

CAUSE OF MR. MANNING'S ILLNESS.

He is Severely Criticized at a Cabinet Meeting—Steps to Kill O'Neill's Arbitration Bill—The Des Moines River Lands—Other Washington Notes.

NEW YORK, April 2.—A Washington special to the Tribune says: "There is some talk here that the cabinet meeting which preceded Monday's attack of apoplexy was an unusually stormy one. As report has it, Manning was criticised not only by the president but also by a majority of his colleagues, for having yielded too readily to the blandishments of Senator Morrill in the matter of papers relating to suspended collectors of internal revenue. Manning defended his action with some warmth. The president insisted that he had not acted in accordance with the policy laid down by him and agreed upon by the cabinet. Manning made no reply and the subject was dropped and relations between the government and the Pacific railroads were taken up. Each member spoke in turn with the exception of Manning. As the members of the cabinet left the room Manning was seen to walk by himself aside from others. His countenance betrayed something working within. It is said by those who pretend to know that he walked over to the treasury department fully intent upon handing in his resignation. This little scene at the cabinet meeting, if it was as serious as some people pretend to say, had no doubt some bearing upon the attack which prostrated Manning in his office half an hour later. It has been whispered about of late that the relations between Manning and Garland have been strained for some time past on account of the Pan-Electric scandal and that Manning in his attitude is supported by Whitney.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Dr. Hamilton was questioned as to Secretary Manning's condition as he was leaving the secretary's house at 11 o'clock this morning. "He continues to improve," remarked the doctor and is very much better. We are greatly encouraged."

From other sources it was learned that the secretary spent an unusually comfortable night.

Dr. Hamilton said this afternoon Secretary Manning is still improving; that to-day is one of the best days he has had since he was taken sick.

Miscellaneous Matters.

Special Telegram to The Star.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—"Five thousand troops would not be able to drive the settlers from the disputed Des Moines river lands," exclaimed General Weaver to-day.

"It is a question which involves the whole state," said Representative Struble.

"I believe we can pass the bill over the president's veto in the house, if the senate will only send it over to us," said Representative Murphy. The bill originated in the senate and that body must pass it over the veto before the house can take it up.

Nothing has ever stirred the state of Iowa more deeply than this dispute over the Des Moines river funds. For a long time it has been one of the great issues of the state. The controversy has lasted over thirty years. The tract of land involved amounts to 512,000 acres worth fifteen or twenty million dollars.

In 1846 congress voted to Iowa one-half of the unsold public land lying in a strip ten miles wide, adjacent to the Des Moines river, to be selecte in odd numbered sections, to aid in the improvement of the navigation of the river to the Raccoon forks.

The river enters the state near the northwest corner and runs diagonally across to the southeast corner. The capital of the state, Des Moines, is about mid-length of the river, and is situated at the confluence of the Raccoon and Des Moines rivers. The lands in question lie in the strip north and west of the capital.

The Iowa legislature accepted the grant. Very soon the question arose as to whether the act of congress gave the state alternate sections of lands for the whole length of the Des Moines river, through the state, or for only that portion below Raccoon fork. In 1848 Commissioner Young of the general land office, decided that the state was entitled "to the alternate sections within five miles of the Des Moines river throughout the whole extent of the river within the limits of Iowa." Notwithstanding this ruling of the commissioner President Polk a few months later proclaimed the land above the fork of the river for sale, and 25,000 acres were sold and pre-empted thereunder, against the protest of the Iowa state board of public works. Later Commissioner Young re-affirmed his decision, in which he was sustained by the secretary of the treasury and the attorney general. Succeeding commissioners ruled differently and conflicting rulings were put forth by different officials for several years.

And just here another party to the contest stepped in. This was the Des Moines Navigation & Railroad company, which in 1854 made a contract with the state to complete the improvement of the river, estimated to cost about one and a third million dollars, the state agreeing to convey to the company all the land then or thereafter to be certified to Iowa for improvement purposes. But in 1856 the commissioner of the general land office and the secretary of the interior declined to certify any more lands under the grant. The navigation company therefore refused to go on with the work, and the improvement of the Des Moines river was abandoned, the state conveying to the company in 1859 all lands which had been certified to the state after Dec. 23, 1858. It is under the deed given in this settlement that the navigation company and its grantees claim the lands in dispute.

In 1856 the question was still farther complicated by a congressional grant of lands to Iowa for four railroads across the state, three of which were to cross the disputed territory. As a result of this railroad grant the question as to the meaning of the grant of 1846 came before the supreme court of the United States and in 1859 that court, the highest tribunal in the country, held unanimously that the grant of 1846 was limited to Raccoon Fork, and that Litchfield who was grantee of the navigation company, had no title to the lands above that point. The United States land department thereon treated the lands above Raccoon Fork as belonging to the railroad companies under the grant of 1856. This unsettled the titles of all occupants of these lands who had acted on the supposition that the grant of 1846 gave the state the lands above Raccoon Fork.

And now began a series of efforts to settle this vexed and complex matter. In 1861 congress passed a joint resolution approved in 1862, to quiet the titles by relinquishing the claim of the United States to all lands which had been improperly certified to Iowa under the grant of 1846. In 1862 congress passed an act granting Iowa indemnity for any such lands which the United States had already sold or otherwise disposed of. Still another arrangement, known as the "Harvey settlement," was made in 1866. But these settlements of 1861, 1862 and 1866 did not apply to the 213,000 acres now in dispute, these lands being regarded as lands in which the state had no right for titles, nor had it assumed to have. Nevertheless the United States supreme court subsequently held in several cases that the lands above the Fort were either relinquished to the state or reserved from settlement.

For many years congress has been besieged to settle this matter and confirm the titles of the men who in good faith located homesteads or pre-emptive claims in this disputed territory, believing the lands to be open to settlement. Bills for this purpose were passed by the house in the forty-third and forty-seventh congresses, and by the senate in the Forty-eighth congress. Such bills have usually, though not always been reported favorably by committees. During the present session unusually strong efforts have been put forth for the bill, resulting in its passage. But a new and unforeseen difficulty was encountered in the shape of the president's veto. The chief ground on which the president refuses to approve the bill is that congress should legislate to set aside a decision of the supreme court. The question now is, can the bill get the necessary two-thirds vote in the senate and afterwards in the house to pass it over the veto.

There is one fact in connection with the veto to which attention has not been called. Mr. Garland as attorney general is now the president's chief legal adviser. Mr. Garland as senator reported the Des Moines river land bill to the senate in the Forty-sixth congress adversely. It is easy to infer where the president looked for information regarding the merits of the bill, and it is not difficult to guess what sort of advice he got. New York parties now control the pretended titles to these lands.

"The veto is a great blow to the Iowa Democracy," exclaimed ex-Mayor Vaughan, of Council Bluffs, "and I fear a great Republican wave will sweep over the state this fall."

Killing the Arbitration Bill.

Special Telegram to The Star.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Some of the newspapers are making a great muddle of the work the ways and means committee are doing in revision of the tariff, one of the Washington dailies announcing that the new Morrison bill is to be tacked on the Hewitt bill, which relates exclusively to the administrative features of the tariff laws, and the bill which will be reported to the house will be made up by providing in the first place for substantial additions to the free list, than for material reductions in the duties on certain classes of articles which are taxed unduly high now, and come properly within a classification of necessities used by all the working people of the country. These reductions of duties will be followed by a change in the number of important features of the administrative machinery as proposed by Mr. Hewitt. The committee continued consideration of the administrative details yesterday, and it is expected will complete that branch of the work to-morrow. It is hoped that the work of framing the modified bill reducing duties and increasing the free list, which will then be resumed, can be completed Saturday so that the bill may be reported on Monday.

O'Neill tried very hard yesterday afternoon to keep the house at work on the labor arbitration bill until a vote could be reached, and the house seconded his efforts at first, defeating a motion to adjourn on an aye and nay vote. When it became apparent that a number of amendments would be offered, however, it was no longer possible to resist the strong desire to let the bill go over. Most members did not understand that this action will almost certainly indefinitely delay the final disposal of the bill. It leaves it in a very bad shape, as to-day is private bill day, and the labor bill is not so far privileged as to be entitled to displace the regular order. O'Neill gave notice just before adjournment last evening that he would move to lay aside the regular order to-day, but that requires a two-third vote. He may not be able to secure that in the face of the strong desire to dispose of private bills. Saturday is set apart specially for the silver bill and the house will hardly lay it aside to go on with the labor question. Monday is suspension day, and members will hardly waive the privilege. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday are reserved for the silver bill, and Friday will bring private bill day again. The following Saturday, April 10, is set apart by special order for the consideration of bridge bills reported from the commerce committee. The next Monday, April 12, is really the first free day, and the following day, April 13, is again pre-empted by a special order for the interstate commerce bill, which thereafter has the right of way until disposed of, although Saturday, April 17, is reserved by another special order for the consideration of bills for new public buildings. It will take careful and adroit management to get the labor bill up once more in the near future, and it is impossible yet to say just what will be done.

Helping the Settlers.

Special Telegram to The Star.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—The bill to settle titles within railroad grants introduced yesterday by Senator Teller provides among other things that in all cases in which lands were fixed on for homestead and pre-emption settlement within the line of the railroad grant prior to the filing of the map of the definite location of such road and such lands, shall hall have been sold to a bona fide purchaser who has taken actual possession of such land prior to may 1, 1885, and have made improvements thereon, such purchaser shall have the right to purchase said lands from the government on the payment at any time within two years from the passage of this act for $2 50 per acre.

Two Nebraskans Made Happy.

Special Telegram to The Star.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The president yesterday appointed E. R. Watson postmaster at Kearney, Neb. This is in place of one Morgan whose name was withdrawn a short time since. There was a strong fight for the office between Watson and Morgan and Morgan got the appointment. There were several complaints about his management and the president finally withdrew his nomination and has now appointed Watson. Victor Vifequaile, of Nebraska, was appointed consul at Banaquilla, aud is one of the twenty-eight persons given a resolution of thanks and a medal by congress at the end of the civil war. Vifequaile started in as a second lieutenant and came out a brigadier-general on his own merits.

Beach's Threat.

Special Telegram to The Star.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—"I killed the educational bill in the Forty-seventh congress and I hope to have the pleasure of killing this one now before us," said Congressman Beach this morning. "It will take a two-thirds vote to suspend the rules and put the bill on its passage when reported, and it has not that much strength. Then it goes on the calendar, and will never be reached there. It requires unanimous consent to take it up out of its order."

A New Amendment.

Special Telegram to The Star.

WASHINGTON, April 2. — Representative Beard, of New York will, on Monday, propose another amendment to the rules of the house for the purpose of expediting business. He will propose to dispense with the call of the committees on all but two days, and have instead of a call of states, to allow each delegate to call up any bill in which his state is particularly interested, debate limited to thirty minutes.

He will be Bounced.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—A complaint has been made to the treasury officials against a chief of a division in the internal revenue building, who is alleged to have insulted some ladies in the department elevator, while intoxicated. An investigation will be held and it is probable that here will be a vacancy in the department.

Wool on the Free List.

Special Telegram to The Star.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—It is now definitely settled that wool is to go on the free list. The members of the Ohio delegation have appeared before the ways and means committee and protested, but it is understood without avail. In consequence they are excitedly angry and swearing all manner of things against Mr. Morrison and his conferees.

Considering the Labor Bill.

Special Telegram to The Star.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The house on motion of Representative O'Neill, of Missouri, by a vote of 155 to 71 went into a committee of the whole on the labor arbitration bill. This is the third day the house has set aside all other business to discuss the interests of labor. The debate was earnest.

The Ship Canal Bill.

Special Telegram to The Star.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The sub-committee of the senate on commerce will meet to-morrow to discuss the Eads ship railway bill.

Yesterday's Congress.

Senate—Mr. Platt made a few remarks in reference to the resolution some time since introduced by him, providing for the consideration of executive business in open session and which has been adversely reported by the committee on rules.—Mr. Logan's army bill will be taken up on Monday next immediately after morning business and its consideration continued throughout the day, and if necessary, from day to day until disposed of.—Mr. Platt consented that his Washington territory bill might be informally laid aside in order to permit of this action on the army bill, but on condition that the Washington bill should not lose its rights of way. The Washington territory bill was discussed at short length.—An executive session was held.

House—In committee of the whole Messrs. Gibson, Crain, Worthington, Tarsney, Anderson, Warner, Osborn, Long, Cannon, O'Neill, Hammond, Kelley, and Reagan took part in the debate on the labor arbitration bill.

The attacks being made upon Mr. Kumpf are almost too silly and puerile to be noticed. Every man who knows Mr. Kumpf knows that they are utterly lacking in truth.

Respectable people of all parties in the Second ward should vote for Wm. D. Charde, the only decent nominee for the council. In the Sixth ward the respectable voters should cast their ballots for J. H. Lipscomb.

The campaign liar has emerged from his hole in the mud and is directing his attention to Mr. Kumpf particularly. He has only just begun work but is prepared to charge that gentleman with highway robbery, murder and arson before next Tuesday.

Every voter shall know the character of the men for whom he casts his ballot for alderman. During the coming year the amount of public work will be greater than ever before and the opportunity for corruption and jobbery will be large. Therefore none but honest men should be placed in the council.

It is highly probable that before the campaign liar gets through he will have proven by affidavits, the testimony of "prominent Republicans" and other means that Mr. Kumpf is the man who killed I. M. Smith, robbed Baker's jewelry store and struck Billy Patterson. Anything to elect Warder.

The prospects for base ball were never better than now, and this season promises to be the most brilliant in the history of the national game. The interest has extended over all parts of the country, and the players are drilled to a point of excellence never before equalled. Kansas City is keeping right up with the procession by getting into the leading ball organization, the national league.

It is really too bad that the question as to he proper method of electing aldermen was not decided last year—that is as to whether they should be elected by wards or by the city at large. Had the matter been taken to the courts there can be no doubt that the decision would have been in favor of the latter method. Certainly that is the much preferable way. The decent people are a majority in the city and with aldermen elected from the city at large there would be no chance for the Doc Fords, the Martin Regans, the Keslers and others of their ilk getting into the council. When the legislature next meets the charter should be amended so as to provide this method for selecting aldermen.

Justice seems right on the track of the "boodle gang" in the New York assembly. Jaehne was arrested some time ago and yes-ex-Alderman Waite and Kirk were gathered on the charge of bribery. The latter was president of the council when the Broadway franchise was given and called the secret meeting of the council which met at 6 o'clock in the morning and passed the ordinance over the veto of Mayor Grace, and against the protest of nearly everybody in New York. The air is full of rumors as to the confessions and it is even asserted that Waite offered to give a full history of the matter some months ago. Beyond a doubt some member of the ring will tell the story of the steal, and there is a most excellent chance that some of the guilty ones will be landed in the penitentiary. It is to be hoped that other great cities will follow in the wake of New York, Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Kansas City have all had or now have corrupt common councils and it would be a healthy thing to make examples of a few of them.

The fit of apoplexy with which Secretary Manning has been laid up for some days is said to have been brought about by mental excitement. The cause of the excitement was some adverse criticism he was subjected to at the last cabinet meeting before the stroke came. The president is said to have found considerable fault with him for yielding to Senator Morrill in the matter of furnishing papers relative to the removals of internal revenue collectors. He complied with Morrill's wishes in the matter, and as this was in antagonism to the course mapped out by the administration it brought down severe censure on the head of the secretary. Not only did the president manifest his displeasure, but the cabinet, collectively and individually, found fault with the secretary. When he left the meeting of the cabinet he was in a high state of passion and thought seriously of going to the treasury department and tendering his resignation, but was overtaken by illness before he could carry his purpose into execution. Should he recover his health it would be well for him to act on his impulse and resign, as his health will in all probability be so shattered that the extraordinary strain required by the duties of his office would be so great as to produce fatal effects. Another cause to which his prostration is in part attributed is the ill feeling alleged to have grown up between him and Mr. Garland about the Pan-Electric telephone case, out of which has grown the notorious Bell telephone suit.

A Town Without Women.

From the New York Star.

"I know a city in the United States of over 30,000 population where not one vote was cast for Grover Cleveland."

"Where was that?"

"In Washington."

"I know a stranger place than that. I have been to a town where there have been no births nor marriages in hundreds of years, yet the people live there and die."

The captain of the bark Malta crossed his legs, opened and shut the blade of a penknife with his thumb and forefinger and complacently chewed tobacco. The Malta arrived at New York from the Mediterranean last Friday with figs and Egyptian onions.

"Yes," said Captain Baldwin, "we ran up the west shore of the Ægean Sea to Haggion Oros, meaning to the Greek holy mountain. It is a grand pile of rocks, rising 6,200 feet straight out of the water, from the end of a narrow peninsula. What Gibraltar is to the Mediterranean Haggion Oros is to the Dardanelles. This peninsula runs back from the mountain about forty miles—grand coost—and averages six miles wide. It is joined to the larger Chalcedonian peninsula by a narrow neck of sand. They told me there that Xerxes, the fellow who led a million of heathen soldiers, cut a canal through the sand at that point for his vessels to sail through. There is another mountain on the peninsula—Mount Athos. We had an Ohio preacher and his daughter, passengers from Alexandria, on board, and the preacher told us about the peninsula and town of Athos.

"'Before Christendom,' said he 'recluses used to live at Mount Athos in holes in the ground. The solemnity inspired by the bare peak of the mountain harmonized well with their minds, bent on wild and mystic thoughts. So,' said he, 'after the new religion came the place got to be a popular resort for monks, who did not want to live with the rest of mankind, and Greek monks have been going to that peninsula ever since, until now, after 1,600 or 1,800 years, they have formed an ecclesiastical self-government. Under the Byzantine emperors the monks were under no secular control whatever, but now the Turkish government keeps a calmakam there. He has no power, however. His duty is only observe the monks. The calmakan has two zaptieths, or soldiers, for a body guard, but they represent the honor of his office more than the power. The community has its own police in the shape of a squad of Albanians. The monks govern themselves by a council of representatives which the proteros, or president, rule. He is called the First Man of Athos. The proteros can only be boss for three months at a time. He then resigns to the next eminent citizen until the honor is shared by every man in the council.

"They wouldn't let the preacher's daughter land. No woman is allowed on any pretense whatever, to set foot in the territory. No female creature of any kind—cow, she goat, or mare, or animal capable of giving birth to its kind—is found there. Not even hens are permitted in Athos. So there have been no births, no marriages, no love-makings, nor scandals there. Just about as many Greek monks get sick of the world and go to Athos as there are those who die. But what a sanctimonious funeral a monk must have there—priests for mourners, hack-drivers, pail-bearers, grave-diggers, and lookers-on."

MORMONISM IN NEW JERSEY.

A Fugitive Saint Hiding Among His Old Neighbors.

A Deckertown, N. J., correspondent of the New York Times writes: "It is an open secret in certain quarters that Elder Decker, a light of the Mormon priesthood of Salt Lake City, has sought seclusion and concealment among his old friends and relatives in this county, presumably seeking to evade arrest by virtue of a warrant issued by the United States district court of Utah, charging him with unlawful cohabitation with a plurality of wives. The elder is reputed to be a flagrant offender against the Edmunds law, in that he holds marital relations with a harem of four women. It would appear that unlike some others of the offending saints with whom Judge Zane has been called upon to deal he shuns the crown of martyrdom, thorny with fines and imprisonments, which an obdurate gentile court extends to convicted and unrepentent polygamists.

The germs of the Mormon faith were planted in this region about thirty-five years ago, and the branches thereof have not entirely ceased to bear fruit unto this day. At that time two missionaries of the then nascent Church of Latter Day Saints appeared in this vicinity and entered on the work of propagating their doctrines in this and the adjoining county of Orange, New York. It is remembered that they were rough-looking and uneducated persons, but they manifested a lively zeal and devotion that gave weight and impressiveness to their teachings. It is also recalled that they avoided villages where orthodox pulpits were many, and turned their proselyting efforts to remote districts, whose rustic and scattered denizens were more susceptible to the novel gospel proclaimed by the prophet Joseph Smith. Here they preached diligently and with fervor to such congregations as might be brought together in private dwellings and cross-roads school houses, and led their converts down into the waters of the neighboring mill pond to receive the rite of immersion which sealed their professions of faith. The number of converts secured was not large nor did their efforts in this line attract any considerable attention among orthodox people. In fact the Joe Smith imposture was then in its feeble infancy, the infamies of polygamy were as yet unavowed in the practices of its devotees, and the outside world looked upon the movement as a delusion too monstrous and absurd to gain any permanent foothold in the land.

After a short period of labor in these parts the brace of missionaries received orders of recall. Thereupon they sent forth an urgent summons to their converts to quit everything and follow their spiritual guides to the New Zion in the valley of the Great Salt Lake. A small party, about a dozen altogether, responded to the summons and turned their faces toward the land of promise. Among these was the youth Decker, the same who has now returned to his native county after long years of absence, in the guise of a gray-haired elder of the church seeking a city of refuge from the stern madness of gentile justice.

Of the converts who failed to join the exodus the greater number in course of time backslided into other folds. A faithful few, however, never departed from the faith inculated by Joseph Smith and his co-workers. Perhaps the last surviving member of this faithful remnant was Thomas Perry, a well-to-do farmer of Montana township, who died a few days ago at a ripe old age. In the ordinary affairs of life, and apart from his religious idiosyncracies, he was a person of uncommon shrewdness and common sense. His peculiar belief in the one direction was never paraded nor denied, but his acquaintances were given to understand that his views were immovably grounded and he did not desire to make the same a subject for discussion. An orthodox clergyman officiated at his funeral, and in compliance with the suggestion of his family and immediate friends no allusion was made by the preacher to his eccentric and obnoxious religious views so long and faithfully maintained by the deceased.

More of the Foolish Girls.

From the Philadelphia Times.

Another young woman who married a stranger has come to grief out in Iowa. He was a handsome fellow, and she believed every word he said, never stopping to think that handsome men are frequently as unprincipled as pretty girls are silly. His past was a blank to her, but that didn't make any apparent difference. She knew that he waltzed divinely and that he appeared the personification of grace on roller skates, and as these were manly attributes in her eyes she said 'yes' almost before he proposed.

After the marriage ceremony, which was quiet, the young couple went to live in a pleasant little home, which, by the way, the lady owned. The honeymoon was made particularly happy by the fact that she had enough money to keep the wolf from the door and all the wedded lovers had to do was to hold each other's hands and wonder why anybody could ever be unhappy. At least that was what the bride insisted. When another woman appeared on the scene and recognized her long lost husband in the bridegroom of a month, wife number two began to modify her views. Divorce proceedings are pending against a man who departed by night.

There isn't anything new to say on this subject—nor anything old, for that matter—which girls of this class will profit by. If they had any sense in their pretty little heads they would avoid the handsome fellows whos do nothing but skate and dance and live upon the money furnished by their brides. The men who are worth marrying have sterner work than that, although the girls fail to realize this until after it is too late. The girls have the public sympathy, of course, but public sympathy won't obliterate regretful memories any more than it will bring back the hopes that made life fair before folly came to stain it with disgrace.

TROOPS CALLED OUT.

MILITIA SENT TO PARSONS, KAS.

Serious Trouble Feared at That Point—Tearing Up the Track at Fort Worth—Waiting for the General Committee at St. Louis—Trains Moving—Strike Notes.

Ottawa, Kas., April 2.—Last night Adjutant General A. B. Campbell issued orders to S. L. Patrick, commander of the First regiment, Kansas state militia, to place the entire regiment under marching orders with two days' rations preparatory to the march on Parsons. To-day's Southern Kansas train conveyed the command to that point, where trouble is anticipated on account of the labor troubles. Great excitement prevails through the southeast part of the state.

Indicted for Burglary.

Special Telegram to The Star

Belleville, Ill., April 2.—The grand jury completed its labors this morning and was discharged for the term. A second indictment has been returned against D. J. Canty and T. A. Canty for being accessories before the fact to a burglary and larceny. The gist of the charge is that they induced Duffy and Eagan to rob the safe in the city clerk's office at East St. Louis for which crime Duffy and Eagan are now doing time in the penitentiary. Duffy and Eagan are indorsed on the indictment as witnesses for the state. Also a number of prominent citizens who were members of the city council at the time.

Waiting for the General Committee.

St. Louis, April 2.—The general executive board has not arrived up to 1 p. m., and so far as can be learned no tidings have been received of them. The local joint executive committee was in session most of the morning, but its chairman and other members say that no business of importance had been or would be done until the arrival of the general committee. They say that the impression which got abroad that there were differences between the local and general committees, was a wrong one. They feel certain that the latter will approve all the acts and there will be entire harmony between the two bodies.

Trains Moving.

St. Louis, April 2.—The Wabash has sent out a train of twenty cars of live stock east bound since noon and the Vandalia has brought in a coal train. No opposition by the strikers was offered in either case.

A dispatch has been received here stating that Fred'k Turner and his associates of the general executive board were in Cincinnati at 2 o'clock this morning and that they would leave there by the next train.

Trouble at Fort Worth.

St Louis, April 2.—A special from Dallas, Tex., says it is reported there that there is trouble in Fort Worth between the deputy United States marshals and the civil authorities and that the strikers "hold the fort." United States Marshal Capit and a number of deputies have just left for the scene. A riot is feared. The marshal threatens to ask for United States troops.

Missouri Pacific Track Torn Up.

St. Louis, April 2.—A Post-Dispatch special from Fort Worth, Tex., says: "A report has just reached this city from the Missouri Pacific yards that part of the track has been torn up, and officers were sent to look into the matter. The strikers and the mob element have their own way in the Missouri Pacific yards."

Considering the Matter.

Pittsburg, April 2.—The propositions submitted by the street car officials are under consideration this afternoon at a meeting of the committee of strikers.

A BIG MORTGAGE.

The Kansas City, St. Louis & Colorado Road Records a Mortgage of $20,000,000.

In the recorder's office this afternoon a mortgage for $20,000,000 on the St. Louis, Kansas City & Colorado Railroad company, in favor of the American Loan & Trust company, of New York, was recorded. The mortgage is for the purpose of issuing a series of bonds, 20,000 bonds at $1,000 each, or $20,000,000 in all. The railroad was incorporated in Kansas, but the mortgage is duly recorded in every county through which the road will pass. The instrument is duly signed by Francis Tiernan, president, and Robert Popness, secretary of the railroad company, and R. N. Hazard, president, and W. D. Snow, secretary of the loan and trust company.

Forty-ninth Congress.

HOUSE.

Mr. Harmer, of Pennsylvania, presented a memorial of shipwrights and caulkers, Knights of Labor, of Philadelphia, protesting against the passage of the free ship bill. Referred.

Mr. Hatch, of Missouri, from the committee on agriculture reported the agricultural appropriation bill and it was referred to the committee of the whole.

On motion of Mr. O'Neill, of Missouri, private business was dispensed with—yeas 115, nays 71—and the house went into committee, Mr. Springer, of Illinois, in the chair, on the labor arbitration bill—debate on the first section being limited to thirty minutes.

Mr. Foran, of Ohio, offered an amendment providing that if on proposition of either party to a controversy to submit the differences to arbitration the other party shall refuse the party submitting a proposition may request a judge of the United States district court to appoint an arbitrator.

THE LUNATIC CAPTAIN.

How He Charged Around the English Channel With His Vessel.

From the Chicago News.

The clear, clean click of the conductor's punch as it industriously clipped the little numbered squares from the passengers' tickets could be heard growing plainer as the knight of the punch worked his way through the smoking car toward the Owl Club seated around the stove in the front end. "Speaking of mutinies," said the marine member of the club, as he filled his pipe, lit it, and snuggled himself in the corner of the car on top of the wood-box—"speaking of mutinies makes me think of a little trouble we had once just as we were nearing home off the coast of England.

"It was 'long about '53 that we were coming from Sidney with a load of guano in an old, played-out tub that, with a gale of wind blowing dead aft, could only make five knots an hour. We had a large crew, thirty-five men in all, good wages were paid, and all went well till we came to double Cape Horn, and then we had it. Head winds, snow, sleet and hail accompanying them with a tremendous sea running. Well, we were hove to there under double-reefed topsails for ten days—I'll tell you the particulars some time, it would take too long now—and finally, when the wind veered round and we were congratulatin' ourselves that we had a free wind, we shipped two green seas one right after the other. They smashed the hatches off, broke most of the water casks, spoiled the bulk of our provisions, and broke us up generally. We were immediately put upon short rations, our allowance of fresh water being limited to one quart a day per man, which was to be used for both cooking and drinking. Well, to hasten on with the story, we reached Queenstown after several months, more dead than alive, although we succeeded in speaking several vessels, from which we got some provisions. When we reached the harbor the captain went ashore and sent aboard everything he could find in the way of grub, and for four days you can just bet we lived on the fat of the land. We then weighed anchor for Liverpool, with a fair wind that sent us bowling along on our course. The captain had been drinking pretty hard, but we thought nothing of it until just about eight bells, at which time we were nearly off Barleycotton lighthouse, the bright light being plainly visible about four points off our bow. Suddenly the old man appeared on deck in his pants and shirt, and, with an oath, pointed to the light, demanded to know what kind of lookout we had been keeping, swore we were going on the rocks, and ordered the helmsman to put the wheel down, following with a number of other orders, which we executed. The chief mate heard the noise, and, coming on deck, took in the situation at a glance. The old man was crazy drunk, having consumed in the four days twelve pint bottles of brandy, besides what he had drank on shore. The mate came forward, told us we would have to overpower the old man, and then went aft with the crew at his back. The old man was too quick for us, however. He saw us coming, and, divining our intentions, went aloft like a flash, and climbed about the rigging like a monkey, with the men after him, finally disappearing in the cabin, whence he appeared a moment later with a revolver in each hand. Well, sir, that deck was cleared in a jiffy of all except the captain and the man at the wheel, who could not escape. The old man drew a bead on him, and, swearing like a marine, ordered him to first put the wheel down and then up, and there the poor devil worked for the whole time, scared out of his life, twisting the wheel first one way and then another. The wind was fortunately light and no damage was done. The old man kept yelling meanwhile for the sails to be shifted, but no one would appear on deck. At last we began to grow desperate, fearing a sudden change of winds and every sail set, and a council of war was held. It was decided the old man must be overpowered, and, upon the men drawing lots, the ship's carpenter was chosen for the job. He crawled out of the forecastle, through the hawse hole, and then by the aid of the tacks which were hanging along the side worked over the bulwark, crept behind the captain, jumped on him and threw him to the deck, where he lay till we had him fast. We then bound him hand and foot, put him to bed, and set a man to watch him. By the second day, however, when the pilot came aboard, the old man was able to take command, and after several more mishaps we reached Liverpool in safety."

The old salt's station was called out here, he got off, and the club passed the rest of the trip in the meshes of a political argument.

AMATEUR DETECTIVES.

People Who Are Always Fancying They Have Discovered an Illicit Distillery.

From the Chicago News.

There is little fear in the minds of the internal revenue officials that whisky will ever be made on the sly in Chicago for any length of time. And their implicit confidence in this respect is based not on the peculiar honesty or patriotism of the citizens, but on the excessive curiosity and suspicions a citizen arouses in his neighbors' minds when he makes some move or does something they were not expecting.

"Such solicitude for the welfare of the government I never saw manifested before in my life," said a prominent official yesterday. "Hardly a day passes but somebody, usually a woman, is up here complaining that her latest neighbor is running a still in his back yard for his own private benefit and gain and to the discomfiture of the treasury department. We are always told that it is a big thing, that immense quantities of corn juice are being distilled and that we must be crafty, as the distillers are extremely astute—not quite enough so, however, to keep the informer from knowing all about their work. We thank the visitor and send her off, feeling that she has rescued the country. Then we send an inspector down to the designated locality, and it is $10 to a mouth organ that his search for defrauding devices is fruitless.

"Oh, yes, we always send a man out to work on these clews. If we didn't we might possibly miss something. There have been times in my experience when volunteer pointers have amounted to something. We located some little moonshining in a vinegar factory in this city two or three years ago by one of these hints, and Hyde Park, later on, was also found to be the source of some crooked whisky. But, generally speaking, these tips are barren of results, and more often than not they are a nuisance, compelling the expenditure of time and money because of some lady's suspicions. I don't think the complaints are usually made in a spirit of revenge, but people think they are doing a positive service, when they smell a peculiar odor, to jump to the conclusion that whisky is being made, and to notify us. Usually we find that a south wind blowing in from Bridgeport on an unusually large soap-boiling pot has aroused suspicion and caused many a good woman a sleepless night and a pain in the back looking through a hole in the fence.

"Sometimes we are fooled ourselves by appearances. A notable instance of this occurred to me a year ago. I had information that a still was in operation in the rear of a furniture store on the South Side, and went there with a deputy to investigate. We were met at the door of the back room by the proprietor, who asked us our business. We told him who we were, and quick as a flash he jumped inside, closing and locking the door behind him. Well, that looked suspicious, and I was just about to get a crowbar and pry open the door when in comes the proprietor through the front door, having gone through a window in the back and come around through the alley to the front.

"We parleyed with him for five minutes and were just about to smash in the door when he opened it for us and we rushed in expecting to find the biggest kind of a still. But we didn't. There was not a thing in the room but a circular saw and a lot of tools. The proprietor afterward explained his strange behavior by saying that he had a quarrel with his brother and feared that he might attempt to destroy the saw, which was some new-fangled device of the proprietor's own invention.

KNEW HE WOULD DIE.

A Curious and Interesting Incident in the Bayard Family History.

From the Lowell Courier.

The subject of presentiment concerning death and fatality in families spoken of in Hancock's case recalls some sad points in the Bayard history. Few families have been more depleted by sudden death than the Bayards, and in many instances there have been forewarnings and presentiments. It is said Miss Bayard wrote a letter indicating her approaching death. There are now in Washington many old naval officers who remember the interesting circumstance attending the death of Miss Bayard's cousin, Charles C. Bayard, at Mount Vesuvius. He was the favorite son of Richard Bayard, of Philadelphia, whose father and Secretary Bayard's father were brothers. In 1843, while on board the United States ship Congress in company with several young friends from on board, he made the ascent of Mount Vesuvius. It was the same Congress that went down in Hampton Roads before the Merrimac, and in the party was the same Joseph Smith, who, as commander of the Congress, had his head taken off by a cannon ball, and of whom his father said, when he heard that the Congress was taken: "Then Joe is dead." In the party also was Lehman B. Ashmead, of Philadelphia, with whom young Bayard afterward went to Jerusalem to visit the Holy sepulchre. While there they both had tattooed on their arms by an old dragoman the heraldic arms of Jerusalem, and the date of their visit. In the case of young Bayard the tattooed cross developed virulent features, festered, and finally he became sick and the arm became greatly swollen. He continually declared that he would die, and even after it appeared to grow entirely well he was in the habit of saying to Mr. Ashmead and other friends: "This arm will be the death of me yet." Ten years afterwards young Bayard left for a cruise in the Columbia as flag lieutenant of Commander Morris. Before leaving he took a sad farewell of all his friends here and declared to one and all that "they would never see him again." He was dejected and despondent. Ten years to a day from his previous visit, in company with young Carroll Tucker, of Maryland, the Columbia being then at Naples, he made the ascent of Vesuvius during an eruption. With him were Rear Admiral Simpson and Rear Admiral Calhoun, who were then lieutenants. He had the arm of a Prussian officer. He was quite gay. Just near the Hermitage, where he had halted ten years before, the party stopped, finding it would be dangerous to go nearer the crater. As they were turning a mass of lava and rock struck Bayard on the arm where he had been tattooed, cutting it fearfully and obliterating the cross, and before the party could reach the foot of the volcano he died. His mother is still living, upwards of 90 years of age. His body is buried near the foot of Vesuvius.

An eminent Presbyterian divine announced to his congregation that he must take a vacation on account of bronchitis, the elders raised his salary and gave him Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. He was cured.

A JOURNEY IN A COFFIN.

How Job Yancey Reached Freedom.

A Boston correspondent of the New York Tribune writes: "Do I remember any incidents of the underground railroad that haven't got into print?" said an old abolitionist and slave-rescuer the other night in response to a question. "Well, there is one story that I don't remember to have seen in the books or the papers. In 1859, just in the height of the agitation, S——, our agent at Columbia, S. C., had occasion to ticket a middle-aged negro, Job Yancey by name, through to Providence, R. I., by the underground. Job had sheltered a runaway in his cabin and had been betrayed by another negro. He learned the situation and came into Columbia in the middle of the night. There was no hope of concealing him. Our agent had thought of a new means of shipment that he had never tried. This was his opportunity to try it, for Job was clear grit, strong with the well-knit strength of middle age, and patient as his namesake.

"S—— got out a large coffin that he had kept for the emergency, and into this coffin he put poor Job, and with him a quantity of crackers, cheese, dried meat, and a rubber bag full of water. A few gimlet holes admitted air. On the first train in the morning Job Yancey went off, shipped as a corpse to a chosen address in Providence. Trainmen were general respectful of the dead in those days and Jacob traveled comfortably for a time, barring the hours that he occasionally lay on some depot platform in the broiling southern sun. Travel was slow, and sometimes the treatment was a little rough. Job after a day or so began to get exceedingly lame with the confinement and pressure, his grim berth grew irksome, but it was when the loud shouts and laughter of his own kind died away around him, and when that and the sickening chill came over him when they dumped him one night on the stone floor of a cold baggageroom somewhere, told him that he was in the north, that he began to suffer. The mere consciousness that he was in the north might have buoyed him up, however, if it had not been for one dreadful circumstance.

"There was a sort of a faint gleam around him that told that it was day, and he must have been in New York, for he says that he knew that he had been carried across some water by the sensation of rising and falling that he had felt. He had felt himself rattled along in a wagon, too, and the wagon had brought up in a place where he had heard the clatter and the roar of trains again. His coffin was dragged violently out of the wagon and when his bearers put him down they stood the coffin against the wall—on its head. Job began to feel the blood rushing to his head. He felt that he was lost, and would die, but he dared not shout for help, as that would mean discovery, a delivery to his owners, and worse than death. Better die there; even a horrible death from torture, than be carried back to his master's plantation. He clung to the determination, but at last felt his weakened senses give way. His consciousness, after minutes of agony, which seemed hours, was lost.

"When he recovered Job had actually arrived at Providence and his new-found friends—better friends than he had ever known—were using their best endeavors to restore him. In a few days he was able to step out into the world, in a home in a chosen village, a free man."

WHITNEY'S IRISH NEIGHBOR.

He Gives Rival Receptions in His Shanty Across the Street and Annoys the Secretary of the Navy.

Washington, March 26.—The northwestern part of Washington presents a jumble of mansions and hovels that can be seen in hardly any other city. A senator's $100,000 house beside a laborer's little planked house is a common sight, especially between Fifteenth and Eighteenth and I and K streets, where most of the cabinet officers and prominent legislators live. Society people suffer much annoyance on account of the proximity of humble neighbors, not because the latter are given to criminal acts, but because their dwellings are considered blotches on the fair face of fashionable Washington. Secretary Whitney lives on I street, near Eighteenth. His house has often been described as the most beautiful in the city. Unfortunately, however, just across the way is a small frame building, weather-beaten and patched. It is occupied by a jolly old Irish cart driver named Rigney.

When Mr. Whitney purchased his I street residence he at once attempted to buy the ugly shanty directly in front of his drawing room window, so that it might be demolished and the ground sold to some person who would erect a building in keeping with the rest of the block. He seemed to have no doubt that his purpose could be easily accomplished. Crossing over to the Irishman's one evening, the secretary of the navy inquired very grandly what was the price of the property. He was informed that it was not for sale.

"That makes no difference," replied the secretary. "I want to pull down this old house, and I will pay twice its value to get it out of the way."

"You will, will you?" replied Rigney, whose family had for two generations dwelt beneath the humble roof. "You will pull down the house I have lived in all my life and my father before me? You won't though, if I know anything about it. Young man, you haven't enough money to buy this old shanty. You may be a big gun and all that, but Tim Rigney's as good as you, every bit, and his grandchildren are going to grow up in these rooms, too."

Mr. Whitney then tried coaxing, but the old man's ire had been excited by the reference to pulling down the house, and he would listen to no terms. The secretary left in disgust. As the first summer of the new administration passed by, he scowled at his neighbor's hovel every morning as he opened his shutters to let in the sunlight, and wondered if there were any means of removing the eyesore before the winter receptions came on. A second overture to Rigney was a failure, so the secretary began to reconcile himself to the inevitable. He did not understand, though, what that inevitable was to be. The Irishman was preparing a diabolical vengeance. The night of the first reception at the Whitney mansion it was noticed that the little frame house across the way was lighted up brilliantly by means of candles placed in all the windows. As the carriages rolled up to the big brick house and satin and diamonds flashed on the steps, a number of poorly dressed couples were seen coming up I street till they reached Rigney's. There they stopped and were received at the door by the genial Irishman in a hearty if not graceful style. Soon their laughter and the clinking of glasses were wafted by the evening zephyrs through the windows opposite, and to the ears of the distinguished guests of the cabinet officer. It is needless to say that Mr. Whitney was out of humor. Moreover, some envious ladies were kind enough to commiserate Mrs. Whitney on the nuisance of having "vulgar Irish people" at her door, and to assure her that they would not put up with that kind of annoyance.

Towards midnight the ball was opened. During the first waltz there came from across the street a weird strain, produced probably by a cracked violin. The accompanying sound of feet on the bare floor had nothing of the weird about it however; it was of the plain old stamping cotillion kind. Mrs. Whitney looked appealing to her husband, and he strayed to the front window and scowled at the vulgar revelers. Just at the moment that the Whitney guests began to take their leave the Rigney guests shook hands with their host also. The good-nights of dainty society ladies and scrubbing-girls were mingled in a way horrible to relate. Of course the ladies made plenty of kindly uncharitable remarks about this annoyance to dear Mrs. Whitney and to one another. In a few minutes the last of the carriages disappeared in the wake of the Rigney foot party. Both hosts were left to their meditations.

All through the season there were repetitions of these scenes. When the neighbors began to mention the Whitney and Rigney receptions in the same breath it was wormwood and gall to the secretary. He hired real estate men and all kinds of agents to bring the refractory Irishman to terms, but all to no purpose. Now that Lent has arrived there is a cessation of hostilities. Mr. Whitney has reason to fear that the end of the penitential season will witness their renewal.

AN ITALIAN MILLIONAIRE.

Queer Ways by Which a Princely Fortune Was Made.

Rome Correspondence Philadelphia Telegraph.

Last evening, about 6 o'clock, died Prince Alexander Torlonia, at the advanced age of 86. He is said to have been the richest man in Italy. His wealth was really great, even when compared with the great fortunes of other countries; and he expended a large portion of it in works of charity. The greatest enterprise with which his name is connected is the draining of lake Fucino, which he carried through successfully, and which has been a boon to the agricultural population of that district. The list of his titles comprises principalities, dukedoms, and marquisates galore. But the original source of all his greatness was a peddler's pack, administered, it must be said, by a very clever peddler's brains. Prince Torlonia's father made a colossal fortune in the time of the great Napoleonic wars. In those days the carrying of contraband goods between one country and another was a service of serious peril and of proportionate gain if successful. The original Torlonia was bold, prudent and keen sighted, and he succeeded. The deceased Prince Alexander made large sums of money by farming the tobacco monopoly under the papal government. He was also a banker of wide and influential connectiona. The balls in Casa Torlonia were a great institution in Rome some half century ago. All foreigners who had any transactions with the bank were invited. To be sure, the number of foreign visitors was much more restricted in those days before the inventor of the steam horse and the avatar of Mr. Cook of touring celebrity. But every one was not quite prepared for that particular form of the amari aliquid which followed those festive entertainments. It consisted in the visit, next morning, of a flunky in the Torlonia livery who gracefully demanded "a tip" from every visitor who had enjoyed the princely hospitality! The thing was quite openly done, and was a recognized institution. The very sum given was fixed by custom at 1 scudi—about a dollar—and I know many persons in Rome who perfectly recollect having given it. A still more curious feature of the affair was that the wife of the then head of the house used to sit with a huge list before her and tick off each name as servants returned with their scudi—which were handed to her. Whether any portion of the sum thus collected, or, if any, what proportion, was divided among the servants afterwards, I am unable to state with certainty. History is vague and doubtful on that point. But the fact of the collection of money from the guests may be accepted with absolute certainty. The deceased Prince Alexander married a daughter of the noble house of Colonna. It was thought a terrible mesalliance for her in those days, and some indignant Roman aristocrats veiled their column symbol of the Colonna family and their arms with crape the day of the marriage. But all which might hurt pride of race in that alliance has long ago been decently covered up with the richest cloth of gold, if not completely obliterated. As to the deceased old man, he will be mourned by the poor and needy, the fatherless children and widow, and many who were desolate and oppressed, and that is a glory which outshines the blazon of princes.

My daughter suffered greatly with neuralgia in the face and forehead and was unable to secure any relief. I saw Salvation Oil advertised, sent for a bottle, and one application gave entire relief.

SATURDAY: Local snows, followed by fair weather; rising temperature.

Sale of Ruchings—10c, 12c, 14c, 17c, 19c. You never saw such value at these prices before.

The Handkerchief Sale.—Every one at the special prices will be sold before to-morrow evening. When we advertise any article as cheap you may be sure of getting a bargain.

Umbrellas—We give you the best Gingham Umbrella for $1 ever sold here for the price.

In Silk Umbrellas, comprising a large variety of handles, our stock is large, the quality is reliable. We have Umbrellas to carry when it rains; Umbrellas to carry when it does not rain, and the sun's rays are very powerful. The weight, then, is a consideration.

To keep Black Hosiery from disagreeably crocking, give them a bath of salt and water before washing them.

Remember, Black Stockings are certainly elected for another season both for Ladies and Children. We keep the most reliable qualities.

Beads are actually worn on Kid and Silk Gloves. We keep them in stock [illegible] this purpose.

Party Dress Gloves are embroidered in cut jet or steel beads.

In France there is very little unnatural pulling of corset strings. Why should there be in this country? Our perfect fitting corsets make it unnecessary.

Our Ribbon Department is exceedingly attractive. What you cannot find in this line at the counters you are not likely to find anywhere else.

Men's Neckwear—The most popular styles ever brought to the city for the price—25 and 50 cents each.

Have you secured a pair of those Kid Gloves at $1.15? You never bought as good quality for less than $1.75. Gentlemen of taste are expected to wear gloves on the street and at church, as well as at parties.

We invite particular attention to our stylish black and colored Bead Aprons, at exceedingly popular prices. They are very fashionable.

FINANCIAL.

QUINN'S CHATTEL LOAN OFFICES,
36 and 37, Sheidley Building, Southeast Corner Ninth and Main Sts.

Money loaned in small sums of $10 up to $500 on any kind of household goods, furniture, pianos, organs, sewing machines, horses, buggies, wagons, jewelry or any good personal property in Kansas City, Mo., Kansas City, Kas., or Wyandotte. You can keep the property and use it; you can move your property from one house to another without charge. Can loan you money for 1 day, 10 days, 1 month, 6 months, interest only charged for the time you keep the money. You can keep the money 1 year by paying a small interest to extend time of payment monthly. Loans usually made in 30 minutes. Rate lowest in city. I have private rooms, no publicity, make all loans myself. No charge for papers, no brokers' commission to pay, no notary fee to pay. You can pay back the money as soon as you please or pay it back by installments, each installment reducing the interest pro rata.

ROOMS 36 AND 37, SHEIDLEY BUILDING, Third Floor. Take Elevator.

TO LOAN—MONEY ON CITY REAL ESTATE in large or small sums at the lowest current rates. REED & COATES, 111 W. Sixth st. †

MONEY TO LOAN ON CHATTELS—PARTIES needing money for a long or short period and not having bank accommodations for getting their notes discounted or who do not own real estate upon which to obtain a loan, can borrow of me any amount of money on their household furniture, pianos, libraries, teams, horses, live stock, stocks of goods, farm implements, machinery, etc. Property can remain in owner's possession. The amount borrowed can be paid in weekly or monthly installments, each payment reducing the interest as well as the principal. If you do not find it convenient to pay off your lease upon your furniture or other property you have purchased upon the installment plan, call and see me and I will adjust matters for you without delay. Money always on hand and at lower rates than can be had elsewhere in the city.

SPECIAL ATTRACTIONS FOR SATURDAY.

Handkerchiefs.

Ladies' all-pure Linen Cambric Handkerchiefs, with fancy printed borders, new styles, at 7½c, as good as you pay 12½c for generally.

Ladies' fine sheer all pure Linen Lawn Handkerchiefs at 15c, as good as you generally get at 25c.

Ladies' Mourning Handkerchiefs, pure linen, new styles, just received. To-morrow's price will be 25c, which is merely introductory, as they are meant to sell at 40c, and are worth that. 25 cents; tomorrow only.

Gloves—Very Special.

Just in, a fresh importation of new Suede and Kid Gloves, including all the newest and most stylish shades for Spring, many of which have not yet been seen in Kansas City.

4-Button Suede, $1.00
5-Button Suede, $1.25
4-Button Kid, 98c
6-Button Kid, $1.28

These prices are just 25 per cent less than usual. To-morrow, remember.

N. B. We will offer to-morrow about 250 pairs of Ladies' Black and Colored Kid Gloves at half, and in many instances, less than half price. They include some of our finest goods, but are to be closed out to-morrow, because the sizes are broken. If you can find a pair to fit you, you save at least half.

Toilet Articles.

"Lubin's," "Atkinson's" and other leading perfumes, the genuine only, at 55c, which is very low. Toilet Soaps are to be sold to-morrow, at special low prices. Our large collection of Toilet articles is particularly attractive just now.

Ruchings.

The newest and prettiest styles in Ruchings ever yet seen will be shown here to-morrow. We are selling more than ever, because of the styles and low prices we presume.

N. B.—Our Gent's Furnishing Goods' Department will remain open as usual to-morrow (Saturday) evening until 10 o'clock. See how well you can do here, Gentlemen.

Notice to Property Owners

On the north side of Eighteenth street, in front of Lots 8 and 9, Forest Place addition.

City Engineer's Office, Kansas City, Mo., March 31, 1886. Notice is hereby given that the City of Kansas, by an ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to construct sidewalks on a part of Eighteenth street, approved March 25, 1886, has provided for constructing second-class sidewalk according to section 6 of chapter XXXI of Ordinance No. 19,231, entitled "An Ordinance in Revision of the Ordinances Governing the City of Kansas," approved April 19, 1880, on the north side of Eighteenth street in front of lots 8 and 9 Forest Place addition, in said city. And that unless the owners of the property fronting on the place where such work is to be done, and liable to be charged with the cost thereof, do or cause the same to be done according to the ordinances of said city and specifications on file in the office of the city engineer of said city, within thirty (30) days from the first insertion of this notice, March 31, 1886, the said city will cause the same to be done and the cost thereof to be paid in special tax bills against the property liable therefor.

Plans and specifications may be seen and all information relative to the work obtained, at this office. Payment for the work to be made by the issue of special tax bills. No proposal from any contractor in default with the city on any previous contract will be considered. No proposal will be considered unless accompanied by a bond of two hundred dollars with two good and sufficient securities (to be approved by the city comptroller), conditioned that the bidder will enter into contract at the prices stated, and furnish satisfactory security for the completion of the work. The right is reserved to reject any or all proposals.

B. R. WHITNEY,
173 City Engineer.

TO all whom it may concern. Notice is hereby given that the undersigned J. S. Chick, R. W. Wood and B. F. Wood, will, on the 9th day of April, A. D. 1886, at the law office of Holmes & Ward, northwest corner of Missouri avenue and Main street, in Kansas City, Missouri, between the hours of 8 o'clock a. m. and 5 o'clock p. m. of said day, proceed to take the depositions of John C. McCoy, H. M. Northrup and John Campbell, in pursuance of a commission issued February 20, 1886, by the clerk of the circuit court of Jackson county, Missouri, at said city upon the petition of the said parties hereto, J. S. Chick, R. W. Wood and B. F. Wood, and in accordance with the statute made and provided to perpetuate testimony.

The object of said testimony is to prove that the land lying north of blocks "A," "C," "D," "F" and "G," of the old town reserve of Kansas City, Jackson county, Missouri, and which is part of said reserve and which was not laid out into lots or blocks by the commissioner appointed in the partition suit of John C. McCoy against Jacob Ragan and the other owners of the old town reserve of Kansas City aforesaid for the partition of said reserve begun at Independence, Jackson county, Missouri, May 1, 1856, was left by agreement of the parties to said suit undivided, and was left by said commissioner undivided intentionally and according to agreement between the parties to said suit; and that at the time the commissioners were making the plat and survey of the lots and blocks laid out by them for division in said suit aided by part of the parties to said suit, that John Campbell tried to get them to give the ground left on the north side of said lots and blocks for a street, but that they refused to do so; and that it was left undivided by the commissioner in said suit for the purpose of enabling the owners of said reserve to continue their control of the river front along the north line of said reserve; and that at the time it was left it was about eighty feet wide at the west end and about two hundred at the east end, and that at that time H. M. Northrup tried to buy it for the use of his ferry from the owners of said reserve, but that they refused to sell to him; and that the taking of said deposition will be continued from day to day until completed, at the same place and between the hours aforesaid.

J. S. CHICK,
R. W. WOOD,

To the Common Council of the City of Kansas, Jackson County, Mo.:

The undersigned real estate owners and residents of the City of Kansas, respectively own the real estate on Eleventh street from Main street to Grand avenue, described opposite their names, by them hereto subscribed, and hereby petition the common council of the City of Kansas, to have Eleventh street from the east line of Main street to the west line of Grand avenue all in the said City of Kansas, paved the full width thereof exclusive of sidewalks and to the established grade of the same, exclusive of all sidewalks of legally established widths, also exclusive of all space between the tracks and the space between the rails of each track and of 18 inches on the outside of the rails of all street railroad tracks on said street, and also exclusive of all the space between the east and west lines of Walnut street, said pavement shall consist of round white cedar blocks six (6) inches long, set on a foundation of two (2) inch cypress plank laid on three (3) inches of sand, and shall correspond in all respects to plans and specifications prepared for the doing of said work now on file at the office of the city engineer.

P. E. Everett, lot 31 Swope's addition; M B Behney, lot 31 Swope's addition, 110; Pete rod en, lot 30 Swope's addition 110; Henrietta R. Eaton and Thomas J. OUR ODE.

The Spring's campaign has become a poetical one, and we modestly contribute our mite:—

Our styles are new—so are our prices.
Profits rubbed down in keeping with the crisis.
Our stock is too large for the demands of the trade.
For the next ten days we will have a great fusilade.
Values will be knocked to the right and left.
Timid people will say we are of reason bereft.
We have firmly decided our stock must be moved.
This is an opportunity that should be improved.
Thereupon, in the language of the old Indian chief.
"We could say more, but prefer to be brief."

HAMMERSLOUGH & CO.

P. S. This thought occurs to us, but rather late;
We're not in the field as a municipal candidate.

Main and Eleventh Streets.

WHAT! HO, THERE! Gentlemen!

Here's a Good Thing

Our New York buyer with the eagle eye has picked up and sent us by express some 200 dozen very fine

IRISH LINEN HANDKERCHIEFS!

As fine, we warrant you, as any you ever saw—at least we believe they are, because they are the finest that are made. Extra large, fine and sheer. Five different lots of them, but all from the same makers, with half inch, one inch and two inch hems. "You pays your money and takes your choice."

We don't pretend to understand how they could be made to sell for so little because we know, and you will know, that they never were. But here they are, and "this is what." We offer them in two lots—in this way:

FIVE of any size hem you prefer of Lot 1, for $1.25. Not 25c for one, remember—but 5 for $1.25. You must take five—and ought to be glad to get them—we were. If you went to a regular Furnishing Goods Store, any one of them would cost you 50 cents. Honest! O, come now! Well, you see 'em.

And if you want to swing the finest Handkerchief that ever yet was made, take FOUR of these in Lot 2. You can have them all one or in different size of hem, and the four will cost $2.00. (We will not sell them singly—not even for 75 cents a piece.) You couldn' get any that are finer than these at $1.00. Indeed, you couldn't get any at any price, because there ar'ent any.

ON SALE TO-MORROW.
